THE PIKES PEAK REGION

HE PIKES PEAK REGION is America's Playground. No similar area on the continent contains such grand scenery, so varied and so accessible. Canons, parks, drives, trails, mountain railroads, picnic grounds, camping sites, turf golf links, and good roads each offer opportunity for recreation and sightseeing. The many scenic attractions are easily accessible from Colorado Springs, Colorado City and Manitou, which form practically one community with a permanent population of 34,768. Electric cars, carriages, automobiles and mountain railroads offer facilities, at reasonable rates, to reach all the points of interest. Ample hotel and boarding accommodations, ranging from the finest in the land to the simplest, care for upwards of 150,000 visitors during the season. The water, coming from snow-fed mountain reservoirs, is the purest in the United States. The summers are cool with invigorating days and refreshing nights; the winters are mild and relatively free from extreme cold, snow and discomfort. The blue sky and bright sunshine make this the great land of the out-of-doors.

COLORADO SPRINGS

COLORADO SPRINGS, "The City of Sunshine," superbly located on a broad plateau close to the mountain range, is famous as a health and pleasure resort and as an ideal residence city. It is a community of culture and refinement and the home of many people of wealth. Its most distinctive development has been as a residential city.

COLORADO CITY

COLORADO CITY, the oldest settlement in the Pikes Peak Region, founded August 12, 1859, was the first territorial capital of Colorado, and is today a thriving industrial center. It is conveniently located midway between Colorado Springs and Manitou.

In the Garden of the Gods

Manitou's Noted Mineral Springs—Ute Iron, Maosioos, Soda, Navajo Geyser

MANITOU

MANITOU is Colorado's most famous watering place, and justly so. As far back as Indian lore extends, the aged medicine men told the disabled warriors of the rejuvenating waters to be found at the foot of the Great White Mountain; today the learned physicians of the white men tell in scientific phraseology of the medicinal properties of these same waters named after the Indian Deity—Manitou. The fifteen springs are all of pleasant taste and beneficial effect. From Manitou radiate many of the scenic attractions. Excellent hotels, boarding houses and cottages offer every variety of convenience. Here is offered the unique attraction of residence among the mountains, together with all the advantages and enjoyments of the modern city.

THE CAVE OF THE WINDS AND WILLIAMS CANON

SECRETS of the Earth's history are unfolded in Williams Canon, whose distinguishing features are its castellated limestone walls and wonderful variety of strata. The entrance to the Canon is directly north of the Soda Springs and the road, after passing through the Narrows, opens quickly into the beauties of the famous Temple Drive, leading to the wonderful Cave of the Winds. The Cave is made up of a series of large rooms, and is brilliantly electric lighted throughout. Here in "Nature's dark room" have been developed the rarest crystallized forms, walls of delicate tints, stalactites, stalagmites and columns of marvelous formation. The Cave is truly a geological miracle. The Cave is open day and night, the year round; the temperature is 53 degrees, summer and winter.

THE PIKES PEAK COG ROAD

THE invariable inquiry made by the traveler approaching the Rockies for the first time is "Where is Pikes Peak?" Other mountains in the Rockies are as high, but they are less majestic than this massive, snow-clad sentinel, and are surrounded by neighboring peaks and ranges which obstruct the view and rob them of the stately appearance which distinguishes the great "Monument of the Continent." The usual way of making the ascent is by the famous Cog Road, a marvel of engineering skill. In nine miles it overcomes an elevation of 7518 feet, with an average grade of 16 per cent. and a maximum of 25 per cent. Wonderful indeed is the view from the summit. The field of vision includes 60,000 square miles. The principal cities of the state lie at your feet; to the east stretch the boundless plains. More by faith than by sight you must realize that yonder hill is a great peak and that each rough fold in the earth's surface is a mighty range of mountains.

Ascending Mt. Manitou by Scenic Incline

THE MT. MANITOU SCENIC INCLINE

ASCENDING the eastern face of Mt. Manitou is the longest and highest cable road of its kind in the world. In a distance of a mile and a quarter it overcomes an elevation of half a mile, reaching Mt. Manitou Park, 9500 feet above sea level. The gradual ascent along a series of unobstructed ridges affords one of the most splendid panoramic views obtainable. The road has been in successful operation for four years. The lower station is reached by street car; the charge for the round trip is one dollar with unlimited stop-over privileges in beautiful Mt. Manitou Park; cars leave the upper and lower stations every half hour during the summer.

THE CRYSTAL PARK AUTO TRIP

THE PIKES PEAK REGION boasts the highest scenic automobile trip in the world—the Crystal Park auto trip. The greater portion of this road has been carved out of the solid rock and yet it is as smooth as a paved street. It winds in loops, makes a double bow knot and employs “wyes” and a turntable, all in an effort to conquer the seemingly impossible mountain climb. It is a distinctive feat in mountain engineering. The trip over this private road is made comfortably in Packard automobiles. Its wonderful panoramic views give a comprehensive idea of the grandeur of the mountains and the immensity of the plains. Miles of trails in Crystal Park, comprising over 1,000 acres at the base of Cameron's Cone, lead to comparatively new and unexplored territory.

THE CLIFF DWELLERS' RUINS

THE CLIFF DWELLERS' RUINS at Manitou make it possible to study interesting evidences of the prehistoric races of North America. Here, under an immense overhanging ledge, have been reconstructed in exact dimensions and appearance, stone by stone, crumbling and moss-covered walls, picturesque towers and queer compartments, all appearing to be thousands of years old. Interesting relics are on exhibition and during the summer Pueblo Indians make their home here.

UTE PASS

LEADING FROM MANITOU up Ute Pass and over the range is one of the finest automobile roads in the Rocky Mountains. It follows closely the historic Ute trail, which students declare to have been in use centuries prior to Columbus' discovery of America, and which today is still clearly marked. One mile above Manitou is Rainbow Falls.

Snow Plow Rock, near the Gateway to Crysta

THE CRIPPLE CREEK TRIP

BETWEEN Colorado Springs and Cripple Creek winds one of America's most wonderful standard guage mountain railroads. Instead of following paths already prepared, it boldly assails the mountain backbone and forces a way over forbidding heights. By horseshoe curves and loops it sweeps around impossible abysses and mountains, showing several elevations of track below. Point Sublime, the incomparable, is only the beginning of a day of wonders; the train climbs on, along the rims of precipitous canons, across deep gorges, from mountain top to mountain top, unfolding with each turn in the road an ever changing view of mountain and plain. It has been appropriately named the "one day-trip that bankrupts the English language." Having conquered the mountain range, the road winds into the world-famous Cripple Creek gold mining district which in itself is one of the world's wonder places.

STRATTON PARK

LOCCATED at the entrance to Cheyenne Canons, is Stratton Park, a beautiful natural park of 90 acres with a dancing and convention pavilion having a capacity of 4,000 people, well-equipped children's playgrounds, and innumerable choice picnic spots. Free invitation dances are given on Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings, moving picture exhibitions on Tuesday and Saturday evenings, and concerts by the famous Midland Band on Tuesday and Thursday evenings and Sunday afternoons and evenings.

BROADMOOR

BROADMOOR, the fashionable suburb of the Pikes Peak Region, with its many costly mansions, its exclusive Cheyenne Mountain Country Club, and its handsomely appointed Broadmoor Casino, one of the most attractive summer resorts of the region, is located on the mesa at the foot of Cheyenne Mountain.

Among the Clouds on the Cripple Creek Trip

SOUTH CHEYENNE CANON AND SEVEN FALLS

SOUTH CHEYENNE CANON, with its massive walls of richly colored granite, and its far-famed Seven Falls, is one of Nature's beauty spots. The way at first leads through scrub oaks and under stately pines. Gradually the perpendicular walls seem to close in, but the mountain stream has cut a narrow passageway and has formed the tremendous "Pillars of Hercules", towering hundreds of feet. Massive cliffs shut in all sides and it is but a short distance to the end of the canon where the stream descends over the sheer granite walls in seven beautiful bounds—forming the noted Seven Falls. A stairway leads to the top, where trails branch in many directions to places of wild beauty and grandeur. The former burial place of Helen Hunt Jackson, the noted Colorado authoress is near the head of the Seven Falls.

NORTH CHEYENNE CANON AND THE HIGH DRIVE

NORTH CHEYENNE CANON with its bold and striking characteristics and a grandeur all its own is a display on a gigantic scale of Nature's wonders. Climbing the slopes of upper North Cheyenne Canon has been constructed the High Drive, a drive which has no duplicate in all the world. Winding over the divide, the road brings into the range of vision a changing panoramic view of mountain and plain of surpassing grandeur. It then descends through Bear Creek Canon—another of Colorado's picturesque canons. North Cheyenne Canon with the High Drive and numerous mountain trails forms a portion of the Colorado Springs park system.

CHEYENNE MOUNTAIN

UPON the rugged sides of Cheyenne Mountain are many wild and beautiful spots. Its summit, which General Pike is supposed to have reached in his effort to scale Pikes Peak in November, 1806, may be gained by an arduous climb. The old stage road to Cripple Creek winds around its northern slope.

Cliffs in South Cheyenne Canon

A perfect climate makes all forms of out-of-door life enjoyable the year round

THE GARDEN OF THE GODS

THE GARDEN OF THE GODS is one of the scenic and geological wonders of the American continent. It is a region where titanic forces have been at play, and where gigantic rocks have been sculptured by wind and water through the ages. To appreciate fully the tremendous convulsion of nature to which this strange park owes its origin, the visitor should not only see the Gateway, Cathedral Spires and other groups along the main drive, but also spend a few hours climbing among the rocks and wandering over the new trails and by-paths. The Garden of the Gods belongs to the Colorado Springs park system.

MUSHROOM PARK

MUSHROOM PARK adjoins the Garden of the Gods on the west. Here are the Steamboat Rock and the Balanced Rock, the latter weighing 500 tons and being supported by a base 4 x 5 feet in size. Interesting formations in this park are made accessible by easy roads and trails. Reached by carriage, automobile or street car.

GLEN EYRIE

GLEN EYRIE, the estate of the family of the late Gen. William J. Palmer, founder of Colorado Springs, is about a mile north of the Gateway. The grounds are open to the public.

TRAILS

MANY KEPT TRAILS in mountain and plain open to the more venturesome traveler territory off the beaten path, whose inaccessibility alone has hidden its grandeur from the world. Rugged mountain sides, quiet nooks, forests of pine and aspen, beautiful streams, great natural parks are to be explored. It is a stock phrase which says "for thirty days one may ride or drive in the Pikes Peak Region and on each day take an entirely different route" and this does not begin to tell of the great and varied territory which is open to the mountain Rambler. The great majority of these trails are accessible in winter as well as summer.

The Balanced Rock

CANON CITY AND THE ROYAL GORGE

CANON CITY, at the eastern entrance to the Royal Gorge, with its unique and interesting drives, its hot and cold mineral springs and its bountiful orchards, is distant from Colorado Springs only 38 miles by the new scenic highway, which is one of the most splendid automobile boulevards in the Rocky Mountain region. To the top of the Royal Gorge has just been completed a remarkable road, which in a distance of eight miles leads the sightseer to the brink of the tremendous chasm, from which point he can look down a straight half mile to the turbulent Arkansas river. The unique and spectacular "Sky-Line" is another of Canon City's roads which has been pronounced by travelers to be one of the world's greatest drives. Canon City is famous for its orchards and gardens, being the pioneer fruit section of Colorado. Canon City is well provided with good hotels, rooming houses and restaurants. It is located on the main line of the Denver & Rio Grande Railroad and a branch line of the Santa Fe; stopovers are allowed on all tickets.

COLORADO SPRINGS PARK SYSTEM

COLORADO SPRINGS possesses the most unique park system in America, comprising 3,000 acres and embracing several of the most noted scenic wonders in the Rocky Mountains. Besides the Garden of the Gods and North Cheyenne Canon, it includes Palmer Park, with its 600 acres of rugged bluffs commanding a magnificent view of the city and the range; Monument Valley Park, beautifully laid out; and many miles of splendid mountain and plain drives and trails. It is valued at $1,800,000.

ROADS AND BOULEVARDS

SMOOTH, fine roads lead in all directions and afford opportunity for days and weeks of pleasant driving or motoring under the most favorable of climatic conditions. It is worth a trip half way cross the continent to make the varied trips in the Pikes Peak Region—over the new scenic highway to Canon City and the Royal Gorge, to Denver, to Pueblo, up Ute Pass and over the divide, out on the plains, and to points throughout the state.

Colorado Springs is a strategic point for the motorist planning tours in the Rocky Mountain region because its central location commands all routes. Every year, hundreds of parties motor from points east and south to the Pikes Peak Region.

MONUMENT PARK

IT is a beautiful trip through the pines and among the curious rocks of Monument Park, ten miles north of Colorado Springs. A good road leads to the national sanatorium of the Modern Woodmen of America.

CASCADE

SIX miles above Manitou is Cascade Canon, one of the most delightful retreats in the Rocky Mountain region. Encircled by lofty mountains, it is a favorite summer meeting place, combining the opportunity for recreation and mountain life with modern conveniences. The rebuilding of the Ute Pass road affords a splendid automobile drive from Colorado Springs or Manitou to Cascade. The Hotel Ramona, a modern hostelry of 100 rooms, is picturesquely located. Cottages furnished for housekeeping are obtainable.

GREEN MOUNTAIN FALLS

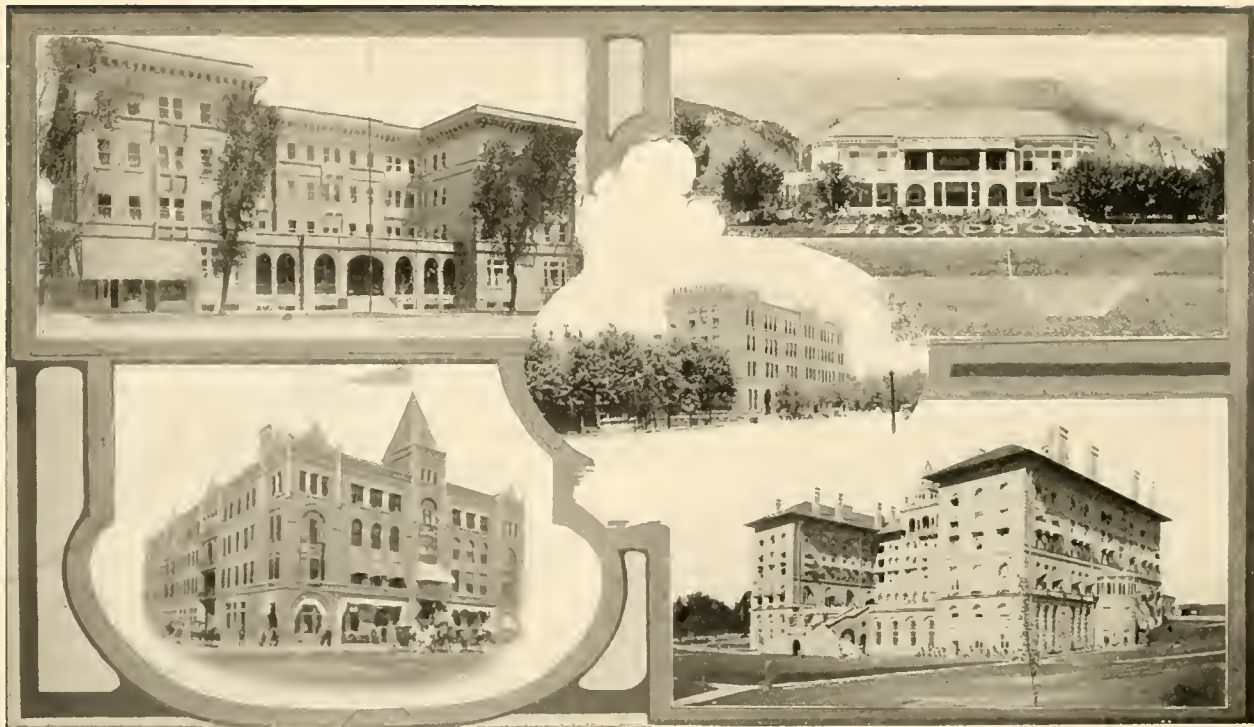

ANOTHER of the attractive Ute Pass resorts is Green Mountain Falls, where mountain streams and delightful surroundings make the summer's outing enjoyable. Trout fishing is to be had.

CRYSTOLA

A SHORT distance west of Green Mountain Falls is Crystola, where there has been established a summer colony, and where accommodations may be secured by the camper or boarder, among pleasant and inspiring surroundings.

Colorado Springs Hotels—The Acacia, Broadmoor Casino, Alta Vista, Alamo, Antlers

OUT-OF-DOOR LIFE

IN this great Land of Sunshine, the call to the out-of-door life is irresistible. It is as strong in January as in July and as easily satisfied, for frigid winters are as rare as sultry summers. Some of the sports which may be enjoyed the year round are: riding, driving, automobiling, golf, polo, tennis, cricket, croquet, cycling, trap-shooting, cross country riding, coaching, coyote and rabbit chasing, mountain climbing and mountain picnicking. Conditions are especially favorable for the camper, and tents or tent cottages near and in the mountains may be secured, at reasonable rates for the season. Within a few hours' ride by rail are some of the finest trout streams in the country.

NORTHEAST of the city, and commanding a magnificent view of the mountains has recently been laid out the eighteen-hole turf course of the Colorado Springs Golf Club. Because of its location and character it will become one of the favorite courses of the trans-Mississippi region. At Broadmoor is the nine-hole course of the Cheyenne Mountain Country Club.

STAR RANCH IN-THE-PINES.

SITUATED on the slope of Cheyenne Mountain three miles south of Colorado Springs is the Star Ranch in-the-Pines, a mountain resort for health, rest and recreation. Cottages, bungalows, rooms with sleeping porches, cabins and tents of numerous types may be secured. Saddle and driving horses, and automobile service are obtainable, and facilities are provided for outdoor sports and amusements. Phone, Red 992.

CRYSTAL SPRINGS RANCH

THE Crystal Springs Ranch and bungalows, eight miles north of Colorado Springs, offer opportunity for the enjoyment of horseback riding, driving, mountain climbing, camping and hunting. Accommodations for thirty guests. Telephone, Red 986; railroad station, Breed; post office, Pikeview.
